

Testimonials

In 2008 it was decided to give our club's C182 a freshen up. We chose Superair based on a number of reasons not just on price but on the depth of knowledge they demonstrated to us about the job during the quoting process. Our's was not just a simple strip and repaint, corrosion was also dealt with as well as the fitting of a new windscreen. At all points during the process we were kept well informed by Superair's staff. Two years down the track our aircraft still looks as good as it did the day it was picked up.

"I wish to express our appreciation to all at Superair in relation to the extensive work carried out on VH-JFT, which has our total satisfaction. In particular to the staff for their personal professionalism."

"Superair's attention to detail far exceeded my expectations when I saw the finished product. My aircraft was repainted with the original scheme which Superair's staff reproduced exactly. Not only that, but the paint job came in under the budgeted price which included extensive corrosion rework. Throughout the whole process I was kept informed and all work was carried out in an acceptable time frame."

SUPERAIR Painting Facility

The Superair painting facility and staff are dedicated to the Aircraft Refinishing Industry. The facility is available for anyone who may need assistance with liquid type coatings.

Our knowledge and experience in this industry is the code of our business, our personalised approach to your needs is our speciality.

Superair employs trade qualified spray painters, licensed aircraft maintenance engineers and trades qualified sheet metal workers. This allows our team of specialist General Aviation (GA) people to cover all aspects of aircraft maintenance and refurbishment under the one roof.

Superair painting facility has a full computer controlled mixing and tinting system in house. We can also custom computer colour match your individual paint requirements.

Superair also offers full interior refurbishment, from original interior design and replacement to custom interiors including carpets & leather or fabric upholstery.

Our facility is purpose built and designed to achieve a paint finish far superior than customer's expectations.

Superair is striving to achieve better services with environmental considerations in mind. All paint strippers used are PPG aerospace approved and environmentally friendly.

We choose to use aviation "Prekote" clear conversion coating (Boeing aerospace approved) to promote adhesion and binding of etch primer. Akzo-Nobel S9001 aviation high anticorrosive etch primer is used (again Boeing aerospace approved). For our top coats we choose to use the Dupont aerospace system. This gives the availability of unlimited colour choices, we are proud of the fact that the Dupont company has awarded us the Aerospace Preferred Refinisher Title.

Our attention to detail is second to none, with all inspection panels, fairings, tips etc being painted individually as removed from aircraft. Inspection panels are painted both externally and internally for corrosion protection and more professional finish. All wheels are removed and painted individually. Engine cowling is also painted off the aircraft achieving a far superior finish and an as new look.

Other items that are sometimes overlooked by owners but may require attention are things like door seals, windows, stainless steel screw kits. Superair is happy to quote, supply and install any of these.

As with all of our jobs not only will the customer get an immaculate paint job but also the satisfaction of being involved in the paint job from start to finish. We take photos throughout the painting process and invite the customer to our facility whilst work is underway so as to see the attention to detail by our staff.
